10th Grade First Exam

27th Oct 2024

22/10/24

rt one: Reading (8 points) 8 Bravo!

Today, I have an appointment with Dr Adnan Maqdisi, Director of the Jericho Farm Research Centre. I'm going to interview him about their work.

I drive past fields of fruit and vegetables to reach the Centre. There, Dr Maqdisi welcomes me and immediately says, 'First, I'm going to show you round. Let's go.' I can see this is going to be a busy day. Soon, we're in a large science lab and I see scientists in white coats hard at work. Then, we pass through a warehouse and I notice various farm products – onions, tomatoes, bananas, figs, lemons, oranges, beans and carrots. Next, we visit the fields. 'Let's stop and I'll show you something,' he suddenly says. 'We're experimenting with different kinds of tomato here. We're developing new kinds that will grow well in hot, dry conditions. When we pick them, we're going to test them in different ways. We're going to weigh them and check for quality and also for diseases.'

Later, in his office, I ask Dr Maqdisi why they are doing all this. He points to a human population chart on the wall. 'Look,' he says, 'in 1900 there were 1.5 billion people, but then the world went mad. Now there are over seven billion and by 2050 we predict that there'll be over nine – nine billion mouths to feed every day.
