Question Number One: 20 Points

Read the text carefully and do the tasks below:

انجليزي ضواحي القدس

----------The results of a new poll show that financial problems have taken over from the environment as the main concern for young people. The survey asked 12.000 people aged between 14 and 18 what they were most worried about. The clear winner was "finding a job", while the environment was only the seventh greatest worry. This compares with similar polls in the last fifteen years, when environmental worries came first.

---------- One of the poll's organizers commented that the results demonstrated a clear change in attitude. " It's not just that getting a job is the main worry," he said. "Also included in the top six worries were getting into debt (6th) and passing exams (4th=).I'm convinced that there's a connection. Because of changes in the job market, there is more and more pressure on young people nowadays to pass exams and go on to university in the hope of finding a good job. And rising university fees make it inevitable that many students graduate from university with huge debts.

---------- Other concerns mentioned by large numbers of young people also tended to be personal rather than social, including worries about relationships (2nd), health(3rd) and fitting in with peers(4th=)

----------Annette Coleman, director of the Green Earth organization, said yesterday that she was disappointed, but not surprised, at the fall in the number of young people concerned about the environment. 'It's not that the environmental concerns are less urgent than before – quite the opposite in fact. It's just that after decades of publicity on topics like climate change, so little has actually changed. A lot of people get the feeling that there's nothing we can do about it, and young people in particular tend to be impatient. Of course, the other thing is that in times of economic difficulty people are more likely to focus on worries that are more immediate and have an impact on their daily lives.

Question Number Two: 20 points

Read the text and do tasks below:

---------- Trying new things needs courage and strong will to break away from routines that make you feel secure and comfortable, the state of mind known as your "comfort zone." Staying inside our comfort zone limits anxiety and minimizes risks also expends less energy for routine tasks. However, it makes us lazy, suffocates innovation and dampens creativity and motivation.

----------Still, stepping out of our comfort zone and taking every opportunity that comes our way is essential for personal growth, avoiding future regret, building confidence as well as expanding our horizons to new experiences.

---------- To challenge yourself and try something new, there are both small and significant ways. They don't have to involve extreme activities; something as simple as changing hairstyle or trying a new food can be just as eye-opening as a big adventure. It's also advisable to start saying "yes" to things that make you uncomfortable and keep going! but pushing yourself too hard can backfire, so it's important to take things slowly and deal with them gradually. It isn't healthy to live constantly outside your comfort zone as it can become a routine in itself and therefore dull.
